

Title of Your Essay Here

Place your wonderfully, amazing, attention grabbing hook should start here. Do not forget that background information comes next. Background information may be a continuation or further example of your hook. Your essay should move from general to specific and have more than three sentences. Try to make this paragraph five sentences long. Notice too how this essay is using Times New Roman, size 12. End this paragraph by putting your thesis statement here.

Your first topic sentence goes here. Remember to connect this topic sentence to the thesis above. Then use supporting details such as facts, example or other interesting and specific details to support your topic sentence. Be as specific as you can. General statements will not improve your writing. You should be able to write six or seven strong sentences. Do not forget to check over your grammar. Now it is time to put your conclusion sentence here. Remember this concluding sentence brings your ideas to an end and prepares the reader for the next paragraph.

Your second topic sentence goes here. Remember to connect this topic sentence to the thesis above. Then use supporting details such as facts, example or other interesting and specific details to support your topic sentence. Be as specific as you can. General statements will not improve your writing. You should be able to write six or seven strong sentences. Do not forget to check over your grammar. Now it is time to put your conclusion sentence here. Remember this concluding sentence brings your ideas to an end and prepares the reader for the next paragraph.

Your third topic sentence goes here. Remember to connect this topic sentence to the thesis above. Then use supporting details such as facts, example or other interesting and specific details to support your topic sentence. Be as specific as you can. General statements will not improve your writing. You should be able to write six or seven strong sentences. Do not forget to check over your grammar. Now it is time to put your conclusion sentence here. Remember this concluding sentence brings your ideas to an end and prepares the reader for the next paragraph.

You are now ready to start your conclusion paragraph. Remember that a conclusion paragraph starts by restating the thesis using new words or synonyms. Then it summarizes the controlling ideas from the body paragraphs. This paragraph should move from specific to general and have more than three sentences. Try to make this paragraph five sentences long. End this paragraph by putting your recommendation, suggestion or prediction here.

Things to Remember:

- Times new Roman
- Size 12
- US letter
- 1-inch margins